

U.S. EMBASSY PHNOM PENH

The U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh is proud to support English education in Cambodia in the following ways:

- Major sponsor of CamTESOL, the national conference for English teachers and trainers held annually in Phnom Penh. In 2006 the U.S. Embassy sponsored the registration fees for more than 100 Cambodian English-language instructors and teacher trainers; sponsored Betty Leaver, the renowned specialist in English-language training, to serve as a presenter and keynote speaker; and provided CamTESOL participants with a variety of English teaching books and resource materials.
- Over 100 students from disadvantaged families in six provinces are studying English thanks to our English ACCESS Microscholarship Program.
- U.S. government-sponsored English Language Fellows (ELFs) teach and work on curriculum development at Cambodian universities. Currently, the U.S. Embassy is sponsoring an ELF at the Royal University of Agriculture (RUA) and another at the Department of Media and Communications (DMC) at the Royal University of Phnom Penh (RUPP). (Requests for interviews with either ELF may be directed to the U.S. Embassy's Public Affairs Section.)
- The Embassy regularly provides Cambodian English-language instructors with resource materials such as the English Teaching Forum magazine.
- U.S. specialists periodically conduct English training for teachers and teacher trainers at the Regional Teacher Training Centers.
